CAMBRIDGE HIGH AND LATIN SCHOOL

Dedication

The Senior Class of nineteen hundred and forty-one, respectfully and affectionately dedicates its yearbook to in recognition of his thirty-one years of untiring and invaluable service and friendship for the students of this high school.

Prologue

Our four years of high school are completed. That our times here may not be forgotten in future years, when new experiences will outshine the memories of old, we have recorded in this book the story of our high school days.

TO OUR ALMA MATER

As knighthood on the first lone quest
 Expectantly doth stand,
 Adread to leave behind the chief,
 The guidance of his hand,
 So we are hesitant to part,
 Though far beyond thy gate
 We glimpse, with glad and happy tears,
 The future that doth wait.

It is with joyful heart we go
 Aflame to reach our goal,
 And anxiously we seek to gain
 That victory for our soul.
 Seek where we will, roam where we may,
 How great or small our fame,
 Oh ever let us keep in mind
 The praise we owe thy name.

Now, fearing much to mar the hue
 Of that scroll pure and fair
 Whereon we'll write our future life,
 We lift our solemn prayer:
 "Guide us Great God along the path
 That is our Destiny;
 Oh keep us ever in Thy Love,
 And true to Man and Thee."

Class Poem

THOUGHTS ON APPROACHING MATURITY

The years just passed, of life's first overture,
Were filled with studies, notes, and pens and ink.
Bright lights were shaded from the young, the small;
The world we saw was distant and obscure.
But now, with suddenness that makes us blink,
We see the blinding rays of sunlight fall
Upon the burnt and scorching earth below,
An earth that with excess is tyrannized
As man reverts to slavery everywhere.
Even, where on Freedom's heights cool breezes blow,
Men rub their wrists and almost seem surprised,
Touching them, to find no shackles there.

But unafraid, we face the blackened land.
For we are young. Our hearts, of steel untried
As yet in combat with the flames of life,
Beat on and know no fear. Fear's fatal brand
We need not fear, who've never seen dread strife,
And so we face the future undismayed.

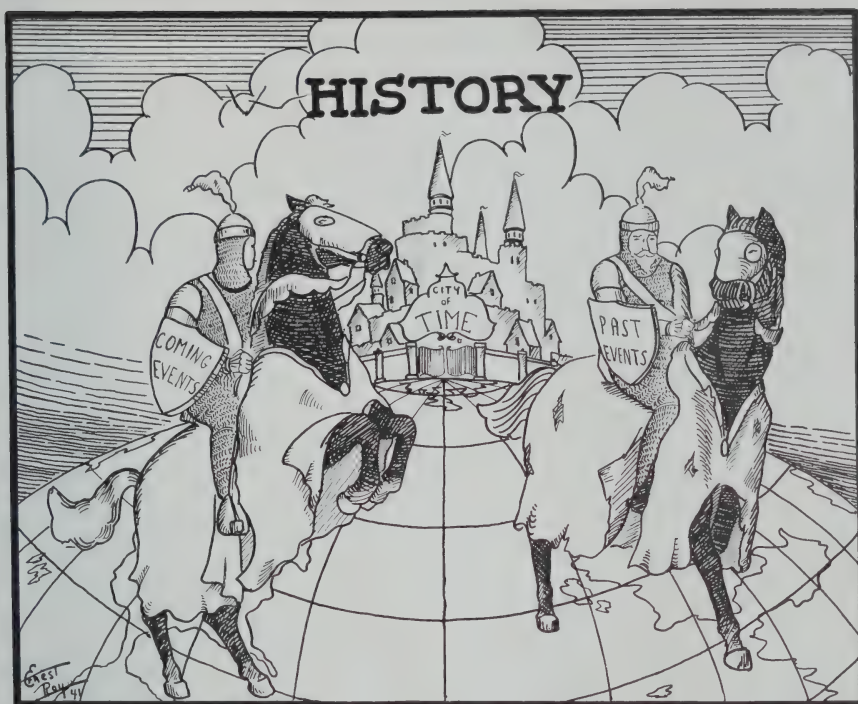

We still have faith in those things we revere,
Our God, our flag, our bill of human rights,
America's firm fertile fields arrayed
From shore to shore in living verdure clear
Which always shall be crowned with Freedom's heights.

HISTORY

Four years ago into the hall of the old Latin building filed the Class of '41. We were freshmen that year, untried, unafraid, and very definitely uncertain. To us the building seemed a maze of corridors that ran nowhere and of rooms that were impossible to locate at the proper time; the teachers surprised us by addressing us by the adult titles of Mr. and Miss.

It was a year full of surprises. The girls discovered the charms of make-up, the thrills of the G. A. A. dances, the surreptitious satisfaction of the "slam" book. In the gym, they learned the latest steps, the "big apple," "trucking," the "Suzy-Q," to the tune of the inevitable "Thanks for the Memory." In their turn the freshman boys suddenly became exponents of what the well-dressed high school student wears, (white socks and a tieless shirt), aspired to the football team, and gained that blase air which was to accompany them throughout their four years in high school.

While we were gaining these extra-curricular accomplishments and tasting these new delights, departmentals, Latin declensions, and seventh periods appeared to blot the sunny horizon of school life. But they did not attain the monumental proportions they were to have in our senior year and the diversion offered by the intelligence tests and the gym exhibit and Talent Night helped remove these cares from our as yet unwrinkled brows.

CAMBRIDGE HIGH & LATIN SCHOOL

That year '37-'38 seemed to glide away all too quickly and we soon found ourselves in the half-way position of sophomores. The sophomore year was indeed a memorable one for then began the blessing, or the curse, (depending upon what class you were in) of the double sessions. Before our astonished and perhaps regretful eyes the old English building disappeared with astounding rapidity while we struggled with Caesar and the history of English literature. In this year we first learned that one could go up stairs marked down and vice-versa, that English wasn't as simple as it seemed, that C. H. L. S. really had a school magazine of its own and that dodging the newly installed fire-doors was indeed an art in itself. (And as yet we are still not masters of that art.)

We started out our sophomore year with a supreme complacency, a knowing sophistication, and ended it, aware in more ways than one, that sophomore meant "wise fool." The girls, almost as a whole, manifested that sophistication with the "up hair-do" while the boys suddenly blossomed forth with supreme unself-consciousness in riotously colored socks in lieu of their former white ones.

In that winter, the winter of '38-'39 the corridors resounded to the tune of Deep Purple while upstairs in the old hall the piano still tinkled and the jitterbugs still jittered to the tune of the Dipsy-Doodle. Whenever we filed over to Rindge to be treated to a movie on the Community Fund or a lecture on public safety (we once had one on electricity, remember), a few brave souls "trucked" and "pecked" their way over. In the half hour between the end of the morning class and the beginning of the afternoon class, a group of music enthusiasts were sure to be found grouped about that piano in the old hall.

While the feet of dancing high school students still kept time to the strains of Deep Purple, we passed into our Junior year, the beginning of the last lap in high school life. But we devoted much less time to dancing that year for we suddenly found ourselves deluged with homework. Life seemed one monotonous round of Skipper's Latin, and English themes and second-year algebra problems. In addition to this, seventh periods first began to hover faintly but ominously on the skyline.

However on the whole, it was a very pleasant year. We were a lot quieter, much more "grown-up" that year although having a bid for the K. B. accepted held as much excitement for the girls as their first freshman dance and making the second team shook the sophisticated poise of the boys as much as their ascension to the track team might have shaken it in their freshman year.

There were many diversions in the course of '39-'40 although we had no Junior Prom due to a very small exchequer.

First there were the junior elections with the following results: Edward Bulger, president; George Garoian, vice-president; Gertrude Crowley, secretary; Betty Fawcett, treasurer. Secondly came a truly New England blizzard, which broke off telephone connections, blocked roads and shut school for two days. Thirdly and finally came a new kind of music. Again the piano in the old hall was pounded on mercilessly, only this time it emitted another brand of rhythm. It wasn't sweet, it wasn't swing. It was exemplified by a certain down-beat as in "Well, All Right" and "Tuxedo Junction." By the time June, and for a few of our class, College Boards, rolled around, sweet music was coming back into its own, and when we left for summer vacation, the halls of the old Latin School and of the almost completed (new) English building echoed the notes of the song, "Make Love With a Guitar."

But when we returned to high school in the fall of '40 for our last, our senior year, sweet music was giving way to the South American rhythms of the rhumba and the conga, and to "boogy-woogy." In a way our senior year resembled our first year for again everything was new; again we attended school as one class. The new Latin building was completed! Its corridors and rooms were as mystifying as the corridors and rooms of the old English building had been to us in '37, only the new system was even more complicated by the addition of lockers. Oh those lockers! It took us two months to learn our combinations but only a week of vacation to forget them.

Nor were the corridors and rooms all that was new. We found ourselves shepherded into the new Hall each Wednesday recess for perhaps a lecture on our duties as a class, or a symphony concert, or a community "sing". We were snatched up in the strange and exhilarating whirl of a life peculiarly senior. We dashed in and out to Purdy's for our class pictures, engaged in three-hour preliminary exams, attended the compulsory sevenths, and tore our hair over senior English. In the morning, before the last bell, zealous seniors could be found endeavoring to study in the hall while all the room was filled with the melody of Amapola, Perfidia, and Frenesi.

Besides assembly and graduation there were three other affairs of our senior year in which we participated as a class. First, there was our Senior Drama, a chilling play indeed, "The Ghost Train," which had among its principals, Ray Fitzgerald, David Hall, Olive Carmen, George Sokol, and Joseph Voles. Next there were our senior elections with results as follows: "Deacon" Doyle, president; Maxwell Sparks, vice-president; Jean Carrier, secretary; and Russell Boudreau, treasurer. And finally came the senior reception which was a huge success!

Thus in a hustle, and a rush, and lots of hard work, our senior year passed. We were absorbed in school life, but with our eyes beginning to turn to new horizons. As had all our four years, our senior year went quickly and now with one fond glance backwards to our four years at C. H. L. S., we step forward to take our diplomas and enter into another phase in our lives. May the time spent here, serve not only as happy memories, but as a firm foundation for our later life, whether we go on to college, to business school or into the working world.

THE DRAMATIC CLUB

Joseph Voles.

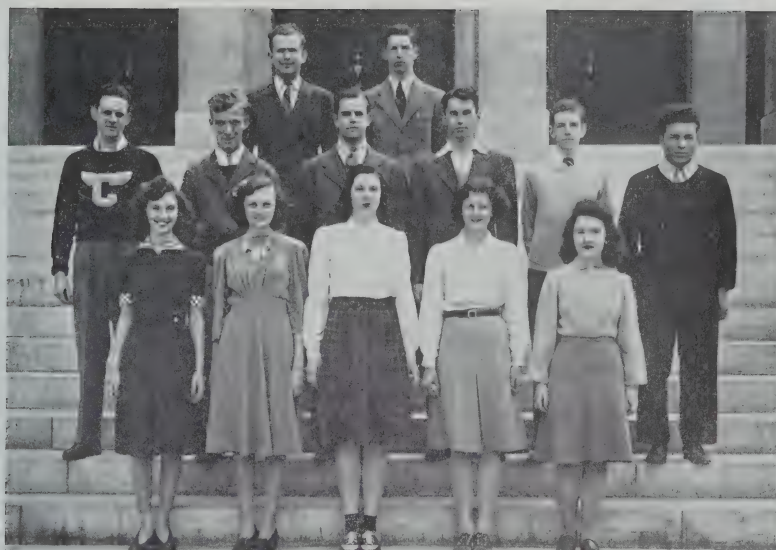

The activities of our Dramatic Club have been many. We opened our year with the informal dance at the Rindge Gymnasium, given in honor of the football team, and quite an affair it was. All the socially important of the school were present, as were members of the football team taking bows en masse.

The first dramatic presentation of the Club was An Afternoon of Comedy held in December, including three hilarious comedies If Men Played Cards as Women Do, The Bathroom Door, and His First Dress Suit. The presentation was a complete success, and the audience enjoyed it immensely.

During the year members of the club journeyed to various schools and colleges to see reviews of the performances. The first attended was at Tufts College, the play being Margin for Error, a satirical comedy by Claire Boothe. The play was exceedingly well done, and after the presentation the group, under the direction of Miss O'Keefe went backstage to be given a close up of how the play was put on. The group was surprised to see how small the stage was, as well as to note the marvelous things that can be accomplished with an expert setting design.

The next play viewed was Emerson's presentation of Hamlet. A member of the cast, and also a former student of this school, Chris Burke invited our group to go backstage where again we received useful and interesting knowledge, this time on the use and importance of make-up in a play.

Later in the season, many of us again went to Tufts; the presentation this time was Thunder Rock, which is one of the biggest hits of war-time London. The play, with its setting in the Lake Michigan region, deals with the beauty and quiet enjoyed by those who believe in escapism.

Tickets were also extended to various members for the Rindge Senior Drama. This year Rindge put on, and very capably too, Night Must Fall, a murder-mystery. The female roles were filled by girls from our club.

In February the highlight of the year, our Senior Drama, was presented, full details of which will be found elsewhere.

The achievements of the Dramatic Club reached a climax when the team from Cambridge Latin captured first honors at the Drama Festival held at Fitchburg in April. The presentation was Victoria Regina, and the cast was as follows:

Victoria	Mary Broussard
Lord Melbourne	Lester Crowley
Albert	David L. D. Hall
Ernst	William Sullivan

In addition to receiving top honors, Lester Crowley also won a special acting award for his characterization of the Prime Minister, Lord Melbourne. The performance was beautifully done and all concerned deserve the highest praise.

A group of members accompanied the cast to Fitchburg and thoroughly enjoyed themselves, at lunch, supper and dancing as well as at the plays. The cast represented this district in the New England Drama Festival, held in Maine, and more glory awaited them there.

The Officers for the past year were:

President	Betty Sullivan
Vice-President	Catherine Bolger
Treasurer	Lorena Duquette
Secretary	Marie Buckley

AT THE SENIOR DRAMA

Joseph Voles.

The puffing and snorting of The Ghost Train began at precisely 8:20, on the foggy, misty night of February 7, 1941. The scene of action was the Leslie Cleveland Station on the CHLS R.R. and the principal passengers were, first, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Winthrop, who are constantly bickering and arguing through the play. The roles were played by George Sokol and Marjorie Fitch. The newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Murdock were very well characterized by Ray Fitzgerald and Lorraine Keefe. The part of the Station Master was interpreted by Joseph Voles. The quite pixilating character of Miss Bourne was done by Madeleine Cajolet in a most convincing manner. Next came the floppish, silly-ass Englishman as portrayed by David Hall. Thus the personnel of the first act is recorded.

In the second act we have three new characters introduced: Miss Julia Price, as played by Olive Carman; her cruel uncle, enacted by Win Holland; and Doctor Sterling better known as Angelo Bonsignore.

The third act is graced by the addition of another trio, the detectives, played by Ed Clifford, Leonard Doyle and Ed Stanton.

SENIOR DRAMA COMMITTEE

Back Row: C. Dunn, M. Barrett.

Front Row: H. Wrenn, M. A. Sullivan, J. Galvin.

The action of the play takes place in the waiting room of the Railway Station at Clear Vale Junction on a branch line near Rockland, Maine.

As the curtain goes up the passengers are slowly assembling in the station, where they must spend the night because of the Englishman's desire to "pull the communication cord", thus causing them to miss their connection. They are all nervous and irritable, and the "foreigner" is the only one who meets the predicament with delight; he is constantly annoying his fellow passengers and earning rebuffs from them. At the close of the act the Station Master is mysteriously murdered and carried, and locked, in the next room.

In the second act, the corpse has disappeared and The Ghost Train (of which they have meanwhile learned the story) actually passes the station.

It is the third act that offers the surprises and explanations, to wit: there has been a gang of smugglers operating in the vicinity and using the station as a "hideout", and also playing on the superstitions of the natives with the use of the Ghost Train story, the train being "as real as the Montreal Flyer". The silly Englishman is, in reality, a Scotland Yard detective, and the Station Master was just "playing possum" to scare them away from the station.

OUR TOWN

Joseph Voles

Winfield S. Holland

Welcome to Our Town, U. S. A. It's a strange town, full of strange people. We know it takes all kinds of people to make a world, and we must have every kind here.

For instance take our milkman, Young Phil Jones, just starting out on his route, the same way he's started out for the five years. Smart man Phil is; some people say he even expounds geometric theories in his spare time.

Now here's our doctor, Al. Lynch, just getting home from a case. Pretty busy man the Doc. is and well liked, too, in our town.

See that big limousine coming down the street? That's Bob Borzakian. You ever heard of his famous night club "El Etinital"? Quite a floor show he has too, featuring Hank Jezerski's orchestra this week with Betty Ambler handling the vocals. Then there's Larry Chivany (the boy who put Krupa out of business) on the drums, with Angie Bonsignore rattling the piano keys, and Catherine Gomatas on the banjo.

But let's take a walk around our town today; I'll point out the famous places and people as we go along. The big building we're passing now is our Radio Station. Look through this window here, see the man at the microphone? That's George Sokol; the man behind him is Walter Clark, just going on with his trumpet solo. George received an offer from one of the big stations in New York; sure will be sorry to see him go.

And see that little store right on the corner there? That's Irene Murphy's Photography Shop. She just opened you know; and she's ready for business. Just call at Room 307; that's her office; she'll make an appointment for you. That woman just going in now is Irene's assistant, Antoinette Pitingolo.

Here's John Martone on his way to work, strutting and looking very happy; he's been that way ever since he received his C. P. A. papers.

This is the new fire house we're passing now. We have quite a few fires in our town; they keep Chief Ralph Chapman pretty busy.

And that building across the street is our new town hall. Harry Oster is giving one of his famous speeches here tonight. His subject will be "Should Nero have Fiddled or Harped While Rome Burned"?

Next week he'll discuss "The Advantages and Otherwise of a Seven-Day Week."

But let's continue our walk around our town. See the two girls across the street? They're Jean Davidson and June Dansereau. Always together those two. Well they should be, because it was together that they brought glory to our town in the recent magazine poll. Remember? Jean was voted as having the most beautiful eyes and June the prettiest hair.

Look! There's June Jackson; you've read her best seller. It's called "How to Meet a Deadline", and they say that Joe Voles bought the first copy.

Well it's almost noon now. It'll be lunch hour soon and all the workers will be browsing around the cafes and restaurants. What say we have a little lunch ourselves? There's a nice clean place at the corner. You probably know the proprietors, George Sever (who designed the building too) and Victor Smith. Learned all they know in school too.

Let's get started again. See that building there, the big red one? That's our new High School, James Optoposides is the principal. Rumors are around that he's going to retire this year. There he is getting out of his car, with Gordon Janes, the superintendent of schools. They're mighty powerful men in our town.

Here comes our business tycoon, Winfield Holland, who's the president of one of the biggest insurance companies in this state. That man with him is Ray Patten. There must be a big business deal going on, because Ray is looking for a backer in the new show he's producing. That girl with Ray is his private secretary, Rosemary O'Connor, and believe me he'd be lost without her services.

Now we'll go uptown, since most of our theatres and hotels are in this district. There's our Concert Hall. Jim Brown's playing there tonight. That big building is our Museum of Art, and there's Ray Fitzgerald sketching on the lawn. Ray just moved to our town about six months ago; rumor has it he's doing very well for himself.

And there's our dance hall just opening up for the day. The famous dancing team of Betty Fawcett and Max Sparks built that hall, and are doing splendidly. They got half the town dancing like those jitterbugs of fifteen years or so back.

The two tough looking men who just walked by, are the most famous detectives we have in our town, Ed Stanton and Ed Clifford. They're working on a new case down at the train station right now.

Well we've been walking longer than I thought, for there's the five o'clock whistle—durn thing wouldn't blow last week—finally got it fixed. Let's sit in the park for a while then I'll show you what our town is at night. Across the boulevard you can see Grayce Thompson, the town's first traffic cop; she started a new traffic system all her own.

Rested enough now? Well, let's get started, we've got a busy evening before us. Let's visit the theatre first. Look there at the stage door, that's Lorraine Keefe going in. She's the star of David Hall's new play, and soon she'll be the darling of Broadway, mark my words. It sure is wonderful how she bewitches her audience with all the charm and poise of a truly great actress. Olive Carman, Marjorie Fitch, and Sylvia Hurwitz give some swell supporting performances. The play looks as if it'll win a Pulitzer Prize for its author, Phyllis Gilman. It's playing at Robert Shine's new theatre, "The Elite", produced by Melvin Schapiro.

As the crowds are waiting for the first curtain call, let's walk around and view some famous faces. There's Ruth Geisenger, editor of the Magazine "Fashion", and say isn't that Peggy Miller, the famous critic? I wonder what she'll say about the play. Her opinion goes a long way in our town. There's Muriel Barret, quite a ballet dancer Muriel is. And look there's Frank Gallagher. Did you see his new movie? And wasn't he handsome? And look at the sailor in a Lieutenant's uniform. That's Peter Gareri, comes home every month or so. Well, the crowd is pretty well dispersed now. Let's keep moving to see more of our town.

Here comes Policeman James Pappas, doing the rounds on his beat; he's been in this district quite a while.

Where's that music coming from? Oh yes, I'd almost forgotten about Janet Brown's party, it's being held tonight for the scientists, Edwin Randall and Roland Moody, who are visiting town now. There are Theresa Twomey, Gertrude Crowley, Lucille Freniere, and the fashion leaders of our town, Barbara Blevins, Jean Carrier and Julia Colarusso.

Behind them are the famous beauties of our town chosen by the Chamber of Commerce for a little advertising. They include Ann Whitten, Barbara Johnson, Thelma French and Esther McGloin.

Smart Chamber of Commerce we have here; it's got members like Howard Mulaney.

But what's all the commotion across the street? Let's peek in. It's a banquet—a sports banquet. Seated there at the head table are the famous football players Mitch Babajtis, Don Cleary, and Russ Boudreau, and there's "The King of the Hoop" Deacon Doyle. Handsome Joe Carson is the Master of Ceremonies. The guest of honor is the City Manager, Arseney Karpovitch, with him are his body guards "Dick" Rizzo and Joe O'Sullivan. Behind them is the District Attorney, Leonard Boyle. That track star over there is George Kennedy, who just recently broke the $\frac{1}{2}$ mile record. Taking notes are those ace stenographers, Ralph Frongillo, James Fallon, Geraldine Dewey, and Dan Curtin. And there's John Campbell with his assistant Ivy Gaynor, taking pictures for the "Daily Review", and the publisher of the paper is sitting behind him, Eddie Cunningham.

We almost missed George Wetmore sitting across the room. He's the boy who won the Golden Gloves last year; our town is proud of him, and proud of his manager, Charles Lee, too.

There's Dick Neale, guess he'll give some of his famous impersonations; he does a mighty fine job of it. Right now he's getting ready to give a one man imitation of the dramatic team that's been "wowing" us here in our town, Virginia Haigh and Mildred Johnston, better known as "Gin Mill Special". By the way, have you heard Stanley Finstein's band play "Gin Mill Special"? They really revived that old swing tune in a grand way! This banquet is being given for the benefit of our local hospital of which Joe Horgan is surgeon-in-charge. He has a fine staff of nurses, Mary Antunes, Evelyn Hoyt, Catherine Harrison, and Barbara Emmons. Mary Benton and Corrine Bingham are on his staff of surgeons. Everyone's come out to help the hospital tonight it seems. With Florence Gimbleman, Anita Battle, Eleanor Springer, and Beryl Godding directing the women stars, and Charlie Herlihy and Frank Gallagher in charge of the men, it's bound to be a success!

The building across the way is the combination Doctors-Teachers Club—you'll find most of the men and women there, when they aren't on duty. Let's walk around for a while. There at the table playing bridge are Doctors Betty Carrington and Frank Gualtieri, the ladies with them now, are their nurses, Louise Conway, and Mary Sullivan. Let's visit the teachers' lounge, you'll recognize many of them I'm sure. Sitting in conference there, are Virginia Cotman, Bernadette Drolette and Margaret Larson. And there's one of the best, Percival Wadman, been teaching in Our Town for almost eight years now, he's talking to Mike Bahadurian. Mike specializes in Latin.

We'll leave by this back door, it takes you out to the gymnasium, which is always crowded here in our town. Ernest Roy owns it, you know, he's wanted to have his own gymnasium ever since I've known him. Any time at all you come in here you will probably find Mary Shea, Phyllis Hogan, and Irene Macaro together. There they are now, on the bars. The big fellow punching the bag is Joe Kochanski, having just left the Navy, he wants to keep in trim. There's Tom Lovett with the dummies in the corner. Hugh Reynolds and Tom Smith are performing their act on the trapeze, as usual. There's the track coach Wesley Moore and Richard Cully, his assistant, looking for material for the team. Down at the other end is Bob McCloud and Peter Lazarkis jumping the rope.

Well, let's get on. See the row of stores there? The first one is Rose Wade's Dancing School and Accessories Shoppe; next is Ruth Wegeler's Fashion Shop. Along the line is Bob Perry's tobacco store. I don't know if you've met Bob—he was a tobacco auctioneer down south; his voice wouldn't hold, so he came back to our town last year.

This building is our chemistry laboratory, owned by Edward Manning (who just retired from the stage), and Pauline Downey; doing very good work there, too.

We've seemed to stray from our course a bit, but I guess you've seen everything of importance in our town. Let's take this street—I think it's the right one. Well, here we are on the Avenue again. It's getting late, and all the lights are slowly going out. The streets are deserted now, like an empty theatre after a performance.

Come to think of it, Our Town isn't much different from any town in U.S.A., just about this time everywhere the lights are going out at this time of night, and the moon glides silently between the clouds playing hide-and-seek with the stars.

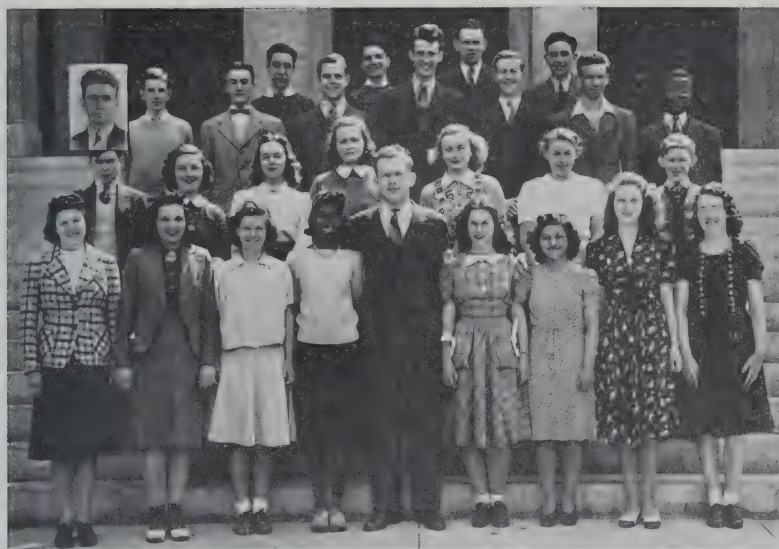

I hope you liked our little trip through our town—you won't find things different whenever you look around.

Let's climb this hill here, which overlooks our town from the outskirts. A light mist is rolling in from the sea, slowly blotting out everything from our view. All you can see now is our "White Way", and soon that will be gone. The dogs are howling somewhere in our town, trying to wake the sleepy town from its celestial solitude.

Now the belfry bell from the church is ringing, slowly knelling out the events of the last twenty-four hours.

Can't see a thing now, but the bells can still be heard, faintly, softly whispering the last good night to a sleeping people.

Good night, good night, from Our Town, U. S. A.

REVIEW

The Review Staff of 1940-41 proved itself to be one of the best in C. H. L. S. annals. It provided the student body with entertainment and relaxation from school work through the contributions of the classes; moreover it kept up that record so associated with Reviews of previous years.

The business was ably handled by our competent Business Staff under the management of Sylvia Hurwitz and Margaret Miller. This year we had a group which was noted for its cooperation and "team play". This feature, together with the excellent cooperation furnished by the faculty and student body, provided us with excellent reading material.

K. B.

The passing of another year finds the K. B. reaching the greatest success of its memorable existence. A supper at the home of President Peggy Taft, started off the year. Following this event twenty-one new members were initiated in the dignified and beautiful ceremony which marks this event in the K. B. On January 17 we had, with great success, the Annual Winter Formal. The evening of the Senior Drama found the K. B. girls, dressed in evening clothes, doing their bit to swell the Senior Class treasury by selling candy. As a special affair for the members and their friends, only, there was held an informal dance on May 9th at the Riverside Boat Club. The final events of the season were the election and installation of the officers.

We who are graduating will always recall, with great appreciation, the pleasant associations and the wealth of good times which we have enjoyed in the K. B. under the guidance of our advisors, Miss McElroy and Miss Buckley.

DEBATING CLUB

Back Row: J. Fitch, D. Hall.

DURRELL DEBATING SOCIETY

The Debating Society has just completed a most effective and worthwhile season, if not an active one. This year it was difficult to renew the interest which had waned during the last two seasons, due to the two sessions at the school, but many boys and girls came faithfully to the monthly meetings and derived both pleasure and profit.

The most active of these members who participated in monthly discussions and debates were:

Lester Crowley
Patrick Elliot
Annabelle Feld
John Fitch
David Hall
Gertrude Hartford
Winfield Holland
Eli Kaminsky

Edmund Lafferty
James Nixon
John O'Neil
Harry Oster
Richard Sawyer
William Smith
William Sullivan
Norma Whitehouse

Joseph Voles

The Durrell Prize Debate will serve to climax the debating season. The successful competitors are, on the affirmative, John Fitch and David Hall with Annabelle Feld as alternate. On the negative, Lester Crowley and William Sullivan with Harry Oster as alternate. They have chosen for their subject the national high school debate topic of this year, which is, Resolved: "That the Powers of the Federal Government Should Be Increased." This topic has allowed for a great amount of research and useful information regarding the workings of the various departments of our federal government.

This same debate team is anticipating closing the season with assembly debates wherein they may gain experience for next year and show their fellow students their ability to stand on their feet and think.

A word of thanks is due Mr. Cleveland, our devoted headmaster, who is retiring this year, after giving many, many years of encouragement to the students of debating in all their ventures. To Miss Margaret Breau, our coach, we express our heartfelt thanks for her hard work and sympathetic understanding.

Joseph Voles.

CHESS CLUB

*Back Row: H. Jezierski, P. Strowman, J. Atkins.

CHESS CLUB

The activities of the Chess Club were ably carried on this year under the leadership of Thomas Burke, and the guidance of Mr. Joseph Sullivan. The other officers are: James Brown, vice-president, Henry Jezierski, secretary, and Sam Ochlis, treasurer. Veteran players who did their share in contributing team enthusiasm and good chess are Marshall Slater, Joseph Kochanski, Philip Strowman, and Philip Jones.

Of the eight tournaments scheduled, not a defeat was suffered by the team, although it gained victory by only a slender margin over powerful teams representing Boston Latin, and Brookline High School. Henry Jezierski went on in post season activity to win the Inter-Scholastic District Championship, but was defeated by a representative of Lynn High School in the State final held at Springfield.

Younger players who show particular promise are James Atkins, Ernest Dzendoletz, and George Lynch. We wish them, and all the future members of the team success, and will be watching their progress with interest.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Now that commencement is upon us, how regretful we are to leave the enjoyable activities of the Girls' Athletic Association; but what happy memories we carry with us of this splendid organization! Every officer worked hard to make this year one of its most outstanding and successful, and each is individually worthy of praise.

After careful deliberation, the officers appointed a new secretary, Olga Zacharchuk, to take the place of Mary Louise Sullivan, who found it necessary to resign.

The senior officers who graduate this June, leaving good records behind them, are Barbara Emmons and Evelyn Hoyt. Both earnestly strove not just to do their duty, but to put things over with a bang. In this attempt, they proved most successful.

Among the novel entertainments held in the gym, which were greatly enjoyed by all, were the Freshman Initiation, the Mother Goose Parade, the Boy-Girl Dance, and the Valentine Dance. The spirit and enthusiasm continually displayed was just proof of the good times rendered.

What a gala success the annual G. A. A. Formal turned out to be, with gay couples tripping by, girls in satin, taffeta, and tulle, and boys in smart tuxes. The highlights of the evening spent at the Hotel Commander were definitely unique and highly commended by all.

The walking and bicycle hikes were under the competent supervision of Peggy O'Brien and Pat Dias, respectively. What fun these hikes were!

The yearly picnic to Kendall Green will bring to an end, as always, the fun-fests of the G. A. A.

In closing this happy year, we wish to express our deep appreciation to Miss Brown, our Faculty Advisor, who offered wise advice and friendly assistance, and upon whose shoulders we undoubtedly let fall the heavier part of our burdens. Through her, we have found joy and happiness untold.

SENIOR BASKETBALL TEAM

SENIOR BASKETBALL

The Senior Basketball Team is another group of girls who regretfully say goodbye to happy High School days, but who leave behind them a fine spirit of sportsmanship and loyalty.

This fine team expertly led by their encouraging captain, Mary Mallett, was comprised as follows: Annette Pottey, Virginia Haigh, Ruth Frazer, Frances Kearin, Dorothy Forrest, and Eleanor Vincent.

Displaying great sportsmanship, our team gracefully lost to both their visiting contenders, Waltham and Somerville. However, good fun was had by all and the victorious teams left still feeling the marked friendliness of our girls.

In spite of these losses, this team came gloriously through the winners of the interclass championship, defeating a strong junior team after a series of hard-fought games. Thus they become owners of the silver basketball so earnestly desired.

The last game, always looked forward to with great anticipation, was the Alumnae game. This was a game enjoyed by all as it was a happy reunion of all players, both old and new. The Alumnae took off the honors of the evening, being represented by some girls planning to "go professional". The game was followed by a nice get-together during which refreshments were served.

VARSIITY BASKETBALL TEAM

Back Row: Miss Brown, M. Warner, M. Henry, M. Mallet.

TENNIS

The Doubles Tennis Tournament again opened the year with a great number of contenders for the championship. Madeline Cajolet and Vivien Marcott proved the Medal Winners after many battling matches. The runners-up were Frances Green and Grace Graham, also displaying fine talent. Another tournament is being held this spring and hopes of competitive playing with the schools are in order.

SWIMMING TEAM

*Back Row: M. Lyons, M. E. Sullivan, B. Ford.

SWIMMING

Swimming turned out to be an unusually great success this year, through the untiring and much appreciated efforts of Mr. Perdyne. An average group of about twenty girls attended each Thursday to be split up into two groups, those going out for competitive swimming, and those for general practice.

On February 18, we turned triumphantly home after seeing Somerville gracefully bow to our superior team with a score of 39-19. Those representing Latin were Mary Shea, Vivien Marcotte, Sue White, and Dorothy Forrest, seniors; Marion Lyons and Mary E. Sullivan, juniors; and Barbara Ford, freshman. Every girl strove diligently to help us win; Marion Lyons is especially worthy of mention for the great number of points she brought us since she excells in diving as well as the backstroke and crawl. She helps make next year's team look promising. The Swimming Team will miss Mary Shea's fine aquatic ability and faithful cooperation next year. Every one of her four years she proved herself a great asset to the team.

The interclass meet was another interesting event with the Juniors taking top honors through the efforts of Mary E. Sullivan and Marion Lyons. This is the second year the Juniors have proved the victors.

I'd also like to mention the good prospect the team holds for the next three years in the freshman, Barbara Ford. Another outstanding swimmer!

May we sincerely wish next year's team as much success and fun as the girls enjoyed this past winter.

SOFTBALL TEAM

Front Row: C. Picard, J. Karen, M. Mallet, A. Pottey, R. Frazier.

SOFTBALL

Softball is another sport which is rapidly becoming popular. Varsity games are already in order with Revere, Somerville and Arlington, to be preceded by an interclass series.

FOOTBALL TEAM

Middle Row: Mr. Frisoli, Sawyer, Darling, McLeod, Goode, DeGuglielmo, Warren, Holmes, Fatagliano, McCauley, Flynn, Gazanos, Mr. Elcewicz.

The football team of Cambridge Latin had one of its unluckiest years in the past season; and we do not offer this as an alibi.

For example in the very first game of the season against Peabody, played under the lights, the team led by co-captains Doyle and Babajtis ripped through the line and threw the opposition for many large losses. However in the last half minute of play, Peabody completed a long pass and scored with no Latinites near. This was only the beginning. In the second game played against one of the best prep. schools in New England, La Salle Academy, Latin fought its way to their 5 yard line four times in the first half but could not score a point. Finally the lack of sufficient reserve forced them down to defeat to the score of 21 to 0.

Although fate appeared to be against them the boys, particularly Doyle, Babajtis, Leary and Chick McManus, who was ineligible part of the season, deserve nothing but the highest praise for the splendid way they performed in every minute of play.

During the ill fated season Latin emerged no less than five times on the short end of 6-0 score, and losing many of these games in the last few minutes of play. This shows, as well as the fact that the co-captains, above named, had to play every minute of every game, the added handicap which arises from an insufficient number of reserves from which to choose substitutes.

The honor of leading next year's team goes to Zadorian, who will be remembered for his playing in the Rindge game.

Lettermen for the past campaign were: Babajtis, Doyle, Leary, Bonsignore, Bushi, Boudreau, McManus, Macaro, Ford, Deelan, Valenti, Cleary, Shea and Zadorian.

BASEBALL TEAM

Fourth Row: G. St. Hilaire, P. Doolin, R. Feloney, D. Gaynor, S. Capobianco, W. Maher, T. Leary, R. Heavern, C. Melino.
Third Row: Mr. Foley, J. Reagan, T. Guzzi, G. Sullivan, T. Coologhan, R. Aylward, W. Achorn, J. Paratore, R. Ernest, J. Donovan, Mr. Foley (Coach).
Second Row: E. McMahon, G. Spartachino, D. Lombardi, M. Babajtis, R. Boudreau, L. Doyle, S. Zadoorian, A. Toscano.
First Row: J. Silva, R. Croycher.

BASEBALL

The baseball team of 1941 is expected to improve its last year's record by many games. When the candidates reported to Coach Sonny Foley for the initial practice session, there were four veterans in the fold, these being Co-Captains Russ Boudreau and Mitch Babajtis, Ed. McMann and Deacon Doyle. Other boys who also obtained considerable experience during the course of last year's season are Al Toscano, Sammy Zadoorian, Pat Macaro, Frank Ernest, and George Spartachino, a transfer from Rindge Tech where he was noted for his powerful batting strength. As the team shapes up now, there is Zadoorian, Feloney, Leary and Doolan in the outfield. Frank Ernest will guard the third base post with Captain Boudreau covering the short field. Ed. McMann and Deno Lombardi round out the infield. The catching duties will be split for the time being between Al Toscano and George Spartachino. The pitching will fall to Mitch Babajtis and Deacon Doyle, veterans of last year's campaign, with Tommy Guzzi and Joseph Paratore standing by, in case they falter.

Lettermen are: L. Doyle, J. Paratore, R. Boudreau, M. Babajtis, J. Donaghue, G. Spartachino, T. Coulighan, Toscano, S. Zadoorian, J. Leary, B. Doolan, T. Guzzi, F. Ernest, D. Lombardi, and J. Feloney.

TRACK TEAM

Back Row: G. Guild, L. Delaney, Wallace, J. Fitzgerald, A. Shea, McDavitt, J. Sweeney.
Middle Row: Mr. Foley, Halisian, Sadeh, Delaney, St. John, Zariski, Brown, J. McCarthy, Mr. Murphy (Coach).
Front Row: Suvelis, Moore, Chase, Dzeclowitz, Barnard, McElroy, Cully.

TRACK

The Track Team reporting to Coach Murphy for the outdoor running included no less than four veterans in its list of hopefuls: Captain George Kennedy, Angelo Bonsignore, Arthur Shea, and Sammy Zadoorian. After a none too successful indoor season, the boys are out to improve themselves and their record this season. Captain Kennedy and Bonsignore are the standouts of the team, and are to be recognized as among the best runners in the State, in their own respective distances. Other boys who will bear watching are Arthur Shea, Sam Zadoorian, Ed. Stanton.

Lettermen are: George Kennedy, Angelo Bonsignore, Arthur Shea, Edward Stanton, Samuel Zadoorian, Robert Colby, James Cooke, Joseph McDavitt, Robert Shaine.

HOCKEY TEAM

Middle Row: Ernest, Maher, Tosi, Leary, Heavern, Feloney, McCauley.

Front Row: Mr. Culhane, St. Hilaire, Cleary, Murphy, Boudreau (Capt.), Lyshorn, Fitzgerald, Toscano, Mr. Foley.

HOCKEY

The Hockey Team this year was a mild surprise to its many followers. With only three regulars, Coach Culhane was forced to do some heavy thinking to fit the right person in the spot he would best fill. With his team built around Captain Russ Boudreau, Ray Lyshorn and diminutive Bob Murphy, the Coach turned out one of the best hockey teams Latin has had for quite a while. Notable among the new members, was the star goalie, Al Toscano, filling very capably the spot left vacant by Randall last year. Tosc. is only a Junior and next year (and remember that I told you so) you can well expect great things from him.

With the line and the goal well guarded came the task of securing a scoring man, and this spot was only too well filled by the "Little Dynamo" himself, George Dynan.

(Look back and you will note that all but one of the above named were former ANNEXites.)

Also always in the center of activities was Tom Leary, who with Maher was elected co-captain for the next season.

Then there came a long list of boys who made up in fight what they lacked in experience. This determination to win went a long way in making the team the surprise that it was.

Lettermen: R. Boudreau, R. Murphy, R. Lyshorn, A. Toscano, McCauley, Tom Leary, J. Fitzgerald, W. Haven, F. Mulcahey, G. Dynan, R. Ernest, C. Linsky.

BASKETBALL TEAM

Middle Row: McMenimen, Russell, McClellan, Macaro, Panos, Horan, Silva.

BASKETBALL

The basketball team of Cambridge Latin in this past season proved only too well that if a team is to be successful, much of its chances depend on height. Although hampered greatly in this respect the boys gave their all in every game, and were never out-played or out-classed. With only two veterans remaining from last year, Doyle and Guild, Coach Koslowsky whipped up a classy outfit, teaming with the aforesaid Aylward, Carson and Phil Jones.

The boys were in there fighting, from the opening whistle to the last minutes of play, and with only one thing in mind—victory. The first team was aided by such capable substitutes as Deno Lombardi, Richard Doyle and George Whitmore.

George Guild was rewarded for his sparkling play throughout the year by being chosen to succeed "Deke" Doyle in the captaincy.

Lettermen for the year: L. Doyle, G. Guild, P. Jones, D. Lombardi, J. Carson, J. Bushi, P. Macaro, R. Doyle, R. Aylward, M. Sparks, and R. McMenimen.

YEAR BOOK COMMITTEE

Middle Row: C. Lynch, R. FitzGerald, M. Larson, V. Cotman, P. Lazarkis, P. Wadman.

Front Row: M. Miller, J. Jackson, I. Murphy, E. Cunningham, A. Pitingolo, E. Hoyt, P. Gilman.

MR. LEANDER A. MACDONALD
Director of High School Athletics

We, the Class of 1941, of Cambridge High and Latin School, being of sound mind and body, do declare this to be our last Will and Testament and do bequeath all our possessions accumulated in the past four years to these our beneficiaries:

To our awe-struck freshmen we leave our friendly old class-rooms, our beautiful brand-new building with its movable desks and unpredictable lockers and our big lunch rooms.

To the sophisticated Sophomores we leave the honor of being almost upper-classmen, the coming awareness of school activities and a bad case of senior worship.

To the Juniors we leave a stock of used campaign posters, the knack of not doing homework and the first formal dance.

To the Seniors we leave the thrill of a senior drama, more outside activities, hard work and long afternoons composing a year book.

To several of our class we leave the enviable title of Post-Graduate, with freedom to walk about the school, coat over arm, and the "I'm-only-staying-a-minute-or-two" expression characteristic of a P. G.

To college preparatory students we gratefully relinquish the compulsory seventh periods, especially those elongated by a resourceful instructor.

CAMBRIDGE HIGH & LATIN SCHOOL

To the commercial students we leave clacking typewriters and pencils sharpened especially to shorthand.

To future chemistry students we leave our old labs with their autographed glass-top desks, the stifling odor of hydrogen sulphide and carbon tetrachloride, our roaring Bunsen burners and a table of valences.

To the whole school we regretfully leave those fascinating loud-speakers, liable to ask suddenly in the middle of a seventh period if Room 204 can hear them plainly.

To corridor perambulators we gleefully leave those swinging doors, together with free booklists on how to dodge the pestiferous portals.

To the athletic teams we bequeath new sportsminded players a wish for good luck and a heaping teaspoonful of school spirit.

To the Review, we leave a new and competent staff of good workers and a wish for as much fun in the Review office as the former staff had.

To the deans we leave students with old and new excuses for dismissals and absences.

To the nurse we leave a catalogue of new and mysterious diseases, invented by ingenious students.

To the members of the faculty we solicitously leave a large and foaming bromo for the countless headaches we have no doubt caused them.

To Mr. Bramhall we leave a package of ever-present hermits.

To Miss McElroy we leave a new batch of young girls eager for her worthy advice on how to be charming.

To the Dramatic Club we leave props, costumes, sound effects, and all other objects which will aid them in achieving dramatic success.

To those unfortunate who misjudge the ramps and sudden steps in the new building, we leave bottles of liniment.

To the General Public, we leave four classes of students who some day will be the civic leaders of their community.

In WITNESS WHEREOF we have set our hands and seals this, our last will and testament, on this tenth day of June, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and forty-one.

Class of 1941

Epilogue

We have come to the end of our year book. The pictures of those friends we know, the verses so fondly there inscribed—all these are behind us. We have reached the final page of the history of our days in High and Latin Halls.

Though the book may end, the pleasant memories of the past four years which are set down here will never fade from our minds.

One thing more. This graduation, far from being merely the end of years of study is truly the beginning of one of the greatest adventures we shall ever experience. We are setting out, armed with a definite skill and filled with such memories as this year book holds, into a world troubled with hate, war, and oppression. Yet within us lies this ray of hope: that the future may prove more propitious than the past. The momentous task of fulfilling such hope depends on us, for we are the Future.
